#experience

- 2017 - 2018: Sentiance, www.sentiance.com, Solution engineer (UX/UI designer / Front End).
The main responsibility of our team was showing the clients what's possible with Sentiance's detections. In other words: We took the enormous amount of data that Sentiance detected and brainstormed / researched what insights would be interesting to show to our clients. Then we worked out the best way to show those insights. And finally we designed and developed those solutions.
- 2015 - 2016: DOBIT, www.dobit.com, UX/UI designer / Front End application developer.
- 2014: Kandesign, www.kandesign.com, internship.
- 2012 - 2013: Designosource, www.designosource.be, practice enterprise.

Since the age of 16 I've had several jobs during the weekends and summers.
Bartender, industrial cleaner, shop assistent etc. So I know how to pour a beer in a very clean glass.

#interests

New technology, the human mind, travel, music, art and architecture.

#strength

Quitting isn't an option. When coming across bugs I won't stop until I get the result I want. For example: when I promised a client a webshop that met all their specific needs, I delivered it. I never worked with Wordpress before but quitting or failing wasn't an option. It took me weeks to learn how, to make, to debug and so on. But I made it! Bugs can be very annoying, especially just before deadlines, but I try to see the, as challenges and opportunities to learn. If I learned anything in the last few years, it's the insight that I can learn everything I want.

#weakness

Quitting isn't an option. Because I don't want to quite I sometimes take too much work or I forget to take time to relax. I sometimes ask too much from myself.
